Hi Doug,

Here is today's golf tip:

Tip

Remember Series - Hinge, Hold and Roll

(You can also view this tip after you log in on the members page and homepage)

Description

In this tip I talk about how to create a good lag angle. Having a good lag angle will increase distance and make sure that you make good impact with the golf ball with a descending blow. With this drill you want to fully hinge the golf club, then hold the lag angle then release it. I see a lot of people trying to do this but without the release part, which makes the club come through too open. This is a great way of getting rid of a major swing flaw.

Until next time,
