

WSP Participates in Anti-Terrorism Drill Aboard the Ferry M.V. Salish

On October 29, 2012, members of WSP's SWAT Team participated in a large-scale anti-terrorism exercise aboard the M.V. Salish. The Washington State Ferries (WSF) is the largest ferry system in the nation and is considered a potential terrorist target. To prepare and train for the potential of a terrorist attack, a number of local and national law enforcement agencies teamed up to conduct a realistic anti-terrorism drill aboard the ferry.

The Salish sailed north to Everett from Bainbridge to give participants the experience of conducting law enforcement operations on a moving vessel. The number of people involved in the training exercise was between 125 and 150, involving the U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Customs and Border Patrol, Seattle Police Department, King County Sheriff's Office, and WSP.

The training exercise consisted of two 45-foot U.S. Coast Guard response boats that pulled up to the rear of the ferry as it was moving so SWAT Teams could conduct "insertions," or jumping from one moving boat onto another.

"We have trained extensively on the ferries over the past few years, but it is rare to get to use a moving ferry for training," said Lieutenant Ron Mead, SWAT Commander. "It was very dangerous as the boat was moving at 17 to 18 knots and there were large ocean swells," he said.

WSP Recognizes Two Men with Awards of Merit

Vancouver – WSP recognized Detective Rick Hughes of the Centralia Police Department and Robert Gordon of Washington County, Oregon, with the department's "Award of Merit" on November 29, 2012, in Vancouver. The two men selflessly risked their own safety to assist Trooper Rob Moore while he was being assaulted on Interstate 5 in Lewis County, July 3, 2012.

A citation of the events read during the ceremony thanked the men for their life-saving efforts. "The actions of Detective Rick Hughes and Robert Gordon not only helped, but also may have prevented further significant injury to Trooper Moore."

The WSP's Award of Merit is presented to law enforcement officers or citizens who risk their own safety to assist a WSP employee in the performance of a hazardous act. Both men, along with other individuals, assisted Trooper Moore with apprehending a male pedestrian who had become combative during a contact on Interstate 5 near exit 77.

While contacting the pedestrian, Trooper Moore was confronted with two 12-inch sticks and a knife. The pedestrian was yelling and reaching behind his back. Trooper Moore was able to get the individual to follow his commands of dropping the weapons. The pedestrian then reached behind his back and threw a large lug nut at Trooper Moore. Trooper Moore was struck in the face by the lug nut and suffered a broken nose. Trooper Moore attempted to stop the individual with a Taser, but was unsuccessful. Trooper Moore tackled the pedestrian in an attempt to take him into custody.

Detective Hughes and Mr. Gordon observed the confrontation between Trooper Moore and the male pedestrian while Hughes and Gordon were driving down Interstate 5. Both men sprung into action and assisted Trooper Moore get the pedestrian under control and into custody.

Captain Ron Rupke thanked and commended both men for their courageous acts indicating, "We are always thankful when the community we serve assists us in our time of need."

A goal of the exercise was to insert as much realism as possible into the event, with the U.S. Coast Guard crew portraying terrorists while others played the role of passengers.

"We hope vigilance will prevent a terrorist attack from happening," said Mead, "but the best measures can't prevent it." He added, "We hope we never have to do it, but if we do, we're prepared." He said he was very proud of the work his team did and of the coordination among the teams, stressing that "communication is essential."

The exercise also had an 87-foot U.S. Coast Guard patrol boat acting as the command center for all operations. It ran alongside the Salish, about 500 yards off the stern of the ferry. Helicopters were also part of the operation. There were no injuries reported to participants during the training exercise.

This was the first drill of this scale in three years involving the ferries. The WSP, the U.S. Coast Guard, and other agencies will continue to conduct training aboard the ferries.

On November 2, 2012, Gordon Trucking, in partnership with WSP's Homeward Bound Program, added a photo of Kayla Croft-Payne to their fleet that includes posters of missing children from Washington and Oregon.

WSP Lieutenant Ron Mead, Trooper Renee Padgett, Sergeant Paul Erdahl, Kayla's parents (Michelle Croft and Thomas Payne) and Steve Gordon, Chief Operating Officer of Gordon Trucking, were at the Gordon Trucking Company offices in Pacific, Washington, to unveil a new, updated age progression photo of Kayla.

Kayla went missing in 2010 and her photo is the newest addition to the fleet of Gordon Trucking trailers with photos of missing children. There are currently 24 different photos of missing children from Washington and Oregon on Gordon Trucking trailers.

Renee Padgett is currently on medical leave to receive treatment for cancer, but participated in the event because she started the Homeward Bound Program in 2006 as a Problem Oriented Public Safety (POPS) project.

The Washington State Patrol recognizes and honors the officers who served with distinction and died in the line of duty during the months of October and November.

His mother took him to Los Angeles, but he died October 26, 1926, before reaching a sanitarium. Trooper Thorsvig had served nine months with the Washington State Patrol.

Letters

Letter received thanking a District 2 Motors Trooper for his professionalism and humility:

Dear Chief Batiste,

I am writing to express my gratitude and appreciation for an act of kindness shown to me by a WSP Trooper on September 28, 2012, at about 9:45 a.m., southbound I-5, HOV lane, just a few miles past Southcenter. The trooper was on a motorcycle.

If there is any better example of your slogan, "Service With Humility", than this fine man, I don't know about it. I am writing in hopes that you could thank him for me.

My wife and I were traveling together to visit close friends in Oregon. I was driving. A very recent death in our family was the subject of our conversation. This distracted me from my usual attentiveness to the speedometer. It was only when I saw the flashing lights in my rear view mirror that I had realized I was going 75 mph.

As I handed the trooper my license, he could tell that something out of the ordinary was going on. When he inquired further, I explained that the recent family loss had me shaken. Thereupon, he went back to his motorcycle with my license.

When he returned a few minutes later, he said in a firm but compassionate voice, "Sir, I am very sorry for your loss, but you really need to pay attention to your speed. Are you safe to drive? Perhaps you should put on the cruise control." The adrenaline of all this definitely shifted my focus to the here and now. I assured the trooper that I was safe to drive. He seemed satisfied that this was true and said, "I am going to give you a warning this time, but don't let it happen again." With that he handed me back my license and departed.

While my respect for the WSP already was a very high level (Mr. Terry McAdams is my teaching partner at UW Law School), this act of kindness by the trooper at a difficult time is something I will never forget.

As a gesture of my appreciation for all that those who wear the WSP uniform do for the people of Washington, I made a donation to the WSP Memorial Foundation.

Thanks to you and all those who serve under you – we are so fortunate to have your dedicated professionals.

Sincerely Yours,
William S. Bailey

E-mail received thanking Trooper Julie Judson, District 2, for her assistance at a distracted driving event:

Dear WSP:

We met Trooper Julie Judson during our "On Location with Christie Johnson (from KING 5 News)" on Friday, October 12, 2012. She assisted Christie during the filming of her distracted driving segment. We are the Avellino family (Tony, Jennifer, Ashleigh & Michael) and we had purchased "three hours on location with Christie" at a Gala this summer. We were delighted to meet Trooper Julie—she is absolutely amazing! She is very nice, personable, knowledgeable and a true asset to your department! She did a fantastic job filming with Christie and definitely delivered the message of how distracted driving is not safe! Also, she was wonderful with our children who are 10 & 8 years old.

As a previous Nordstrom employee, I know top service when I see and experience it. Trooper Julie has a gift with people and a huge heart! We really enjoyed our time with her and would love to return! Please pass this email to her commanding officers (who we also enjoyed meeting that morning).

Secondly, big kudos to the K-9 officer who allowed Ashleigh to see his police dog. We also enjoyed speaking to him and appreciated the time he gave us!

We had a truly enjoyable morning at the WSP! Thank you!

Sincerely,
Jennifer, Tony, Ashleigh & Michael Avellino

E-mail received via our Web site thanking a District 4 trooper for his professionalism and patience:

I would like to write to the Washington State Patrol office located in Colville, at least that is the one I assume that the officer who pulled me over works out of.

On Saturday afternoon, September 22, I was driving from Oroville down to Deer Park with my family to a wedding. An officer pulled me over just south of the Jump Off Joe Lake turn off on Highway 395. I can't lie, when he first approached my Suburban, he worried me greatly as he was Mr. Serious and ALL business.

He started his approach to my car by tapping quite firmly on my back passenger tail light as it was obviously not functioning properly. As soon as I saw the lights I knew he was going to notice my tail light that was out. I had just replaced a front head light the day before, but I didn't have that bulb and hadn't made it to the store yet to get a new one yet....but it was on my list of to-do's. He started telling me that my foot was quite heavy today as I had just passed somebody and had continued above the speed limit. It was true as I hadn't put my cruise control on again yet and well, I was running a little late too, so yes, I was pushing the envelope ever so slightly, although I never made it over 70. So, I wasn't a complete maniac. Of course, with a last name of Quick, the officer must have known that speed is in my blood and it's hard to control sometimes when you're running late.

The fun continued as he asked for my registration, which he was quick to point out that my tabs were expired, which truly did surprise me. I went to find my insurance card, and well, that too had expired in August, even though I am all paid up with full coverage. I really thought I was going to get a whopper of a ticket. Honestly, if he had looked in my upper corner of my window even my engine was a couple of months overdue. The stars were not aligned for me and I obviously hadn't been taking care of business lately as I should. I thought speeding, tabs, brake light, insurance card...crap, I'm doomed! To my great surprise and relief the rather gruff and all business-like officer that was much older and wiser than I, simply told me to take care of everything by Monday please and to drive more carefully on the very dangerous highway that it is.

I would just like to say thank you to this kind officer. Although he seemed a little old and grumpy at first, he definitely made my day by sending me down the road with just a verbal warning. I do have a clean driving record and I do hope to keep it that way for a long time. I learned a long time ago that slowing down pays off not only in terms of safety, but in the old pocket book as well, especially with those insurance companies we all love to despise! With my last name as it is, my younger days had me paying more insurance than I really should have been because of speeding tickets. I really did learn my lesson. Promise. I'm older and wiser now..but obviously I'm not perfect yet.

Anyway, thank you so much for the warning and for not writing me a ticket that could have cost me a lot of money and grief. I would like the officer to know that I did take care of every last item that needed to be fixed right away, including changing the oil. Sorry for wrongfully judging and thank you for taking your job seriously. I appreciate what law enforcement does in terms of both prevention and enforcement.

Thank you to all the WSP officers for doing your job and keeping us safe out there!

Sincerely,
Steve Quick

E-mail received via our Web site complimenting Trooper Jason Fallon for his speedy and professional assistance with VIN verification:

We just wanted to write a quick note to say thank you for helping us with solving the mystery VIN number on our newly purchased 1963 Mercedes earlier this week (Oct 17) at your Port Angeles office. I can't emphasize enough how stressed we were at the thought of not having a matching VIN on the car and even worse, not being able to bring the car back to Canada. We absolutely had no idea of what we would do.

Your willingness to assist us so quickly and the effort you put in to finding the VIN was amazing! Thanks to you, we were completely put at ease and made the ferry from Port Angeles back to Victoria BC with a bit of time to spare.

You truly saved our day!

All the best.
Monte and Sharie (from Victoria BC)

Letter sent to Captain Robert Johnson, District 8, thanking Trooper Michael Johnson, District 8, for his professionalism and willingness to assist fellow police agencies:

Sir,

On the morning of October 28, 2012, I observed a suspected DUI driver southbound on Hwy 3 in Gorst. Bremerton units were tied up on other details, so I requested assistance from WSP. Trooper Johnson, who had already arrested two DUI's earlier in the night, arrived on scene and assisted with the investigation. The driver was subsequently arrested by Trooper Johnson for DUI.

During the stop, I was very impressed with Trooper Johnson's professionalism and courtesy toward the suspect driver. I was equally impressed with his investigative skills and proficiency with the roadside tests. I have had the pleasure of working with Trooper Johnson on a few details and each time, I am extremely impressed by him. I wanted to take a quick minute and pass along my "Thanks" and bring Trooper Johnson's quality work performance to your attention.

Sincerely,
Sergeant Billy Renfro, #415

E-mail received thanking a Trooper for help during a medical emergency:

Dear Washington State Patrol,

On Saturday, October 27, I was driving from Ellensburg towards Yakima at approximately 2:00 p.m.

I called 911 because I had an unexpected allergic reaction to a food I had recently eaten. A trooper arrived first and met me at my car (I am sorry I do not have his name.) He stayed while I talked with the medics and walked with me back to my car. The trooper was wonderful! His demeanor was calm and collected and his personality was warm and kind. I really couldn't have asked for more - his professional manner was a relief and I was scared and unsure about my health and safety.

I hope you are able to pass on my thanks to this trooper and to his supervisors. This wonderful experience lightened my load and made me feel safe as I completed my drive to my friend's wedding.

Thank you so much!

All the best,
Andrea J. Lahr
