From: The Washington Post
To: Larm, Doug
Subject: News Alert: Police chief: U-Va. investigation found no evidence of sex assault
Date: Monday, March 23, 2015 11:36:57 AM

News Alert • Mon., Mar. 23, 2015 02:27 PM

View in your Web browser

Police chief: U-Va. investigation found no evidence of sex assault

Charlottesville, Va., Police Chief Timothy J. Longo announced Monday that a five-month investigation spurred by allegations of a brutal fraternity house gang-rape revealed no evidence that the alleged assault had occurred. The gang-rape described in Rolling Stone magazine unraveled under scrutiny as the accuser's version of events was challenged by her friends, members of the fraternity and sexual assault advocates on campus.

Read more »

Manage Your Alerts/Newsletters

Unsubscribe All	Help & contact info	Privacy policy

©2015 The Washington Post
1150 15th St NW, Washington, DC 20071